The Old Austin Recreation Center was built in 1924 by Mr. William Thomas (W.T.) Caswell Sr. It was called the Austin Athletic Center and it provided Austin residents with a gymnasium and tennis courts and was used by the public until 1986. Currently, the facility is boarded up due to deteriorating conditions of walls, floors, doors, windows, and roof. Approximately 80% of lead containing paint on the exterior of the building is significantly damaged.

The purpose of this project is to demolish the entire building. The hazardous materials like lead and asbestos will be abated prior to demolition. An allowance of $55,000 is included for removal of hazardous and special waste, landscaping and signs. The building is full of mold since it has not been fully protected from the elements for over 20 years. This project will clear up this land for future use.

The contract allows 60 calendar days for completion of the project.
